

9th Annual San Francisco Ocean Film Festival
March 8 - 11, 2012
2012 Volunteer Recruitment

The San Francisco Ocean Film Festival is a volunteer-driven 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization dedicated to using film to improve public understanding of the environmental, social and cultural importance of marine ecosystems and to increase active participation in ocean conservation. The Festival only happens due to the energy, enthusiasm and commitment of over 100 volunteers every year. We offer a number of positions in various departments, including year-round planning and special events as well as on-site positions during the five day Festival. We have over 100 volunteer positions to choose from including part-time and full time internships. Positions may last anywhere from 4 days to 4 months.
